Joshua: SILENCE!! me: oh hai lol
Joshua: lololol
Joshua: now now
Joshua: .. me: I made the mistake of asking Stein for his opinion on something Joshua: seems like neither of us would make that mistake after so many years Joshua: what did you ask him> me: oh, to look over this me: http://www.typewith.me/qdjqeFFu8O me: do me a solid and take a look me: and this as well me: http://typewith.me/owA6rmGfP6 me: if there's anything you can add in terms of ideas or expanding on subjects, do so me: we're putting out guides on practical revolutionary methods me: for Tunisias and Alherians in particular Joshua: go on me: Tunisians and Algerians, rather me: it's all here in this pamphlet! me: actually, it is Joshua: i c me: for instance me: http://www.dailykos.com/story/2011/1/21/937994/-Guide-to-Protecting-the-Algerian-Revolution me: that's the work of Anonymous folks, North Africans, experts I've brought in through Project PM, etc Joshua: i feel like it would take me some time to really understand what youre talking about here - but i'll give it a read me: oh thanks!
Joshua: what was andrew's input Joshua: >
Joshua: ?
me: he said it was hard to read and disorganized me: after I explained that they were disorganized notes Joshua: classic andrew!!! me: classic cool
Joshua: laterz barrett
